RUMOR THAT DEBOE WILL CHANGE CALL IS DISCREDITED

Taft Men Would Not Permit Arbitrary Orders, as They Have Upper Hand.

Carlisle and Lyon Counties Join Procession.

TACTICS IN THIS COUNTY

While rumors have reached Paducah that District Chairman W. J. Deboe has decided to postpone the convention to conform to the recommendation of the state committee, after he had arbitrarily set the date for March 11, no credence is placed in the report and the Taft men, who are now assured of every county in the district with the possible exceptions of Crittenden and Caldwell, and contest in Graves and Ballard, will not permit any more arbitrary action without, at least, a protest.

Assurances received from Lyon and Carlisle counties are that they will be for Taft strong. In Ballard the sentiment for Taft is four to one. Caldwell county and Livingston county leaders, as well as those in Calloway, declare that the sentiment favorable to the Roosevelt administration is too strong for the enemies of the administration to overcome. Even in Crittenden county, his home, Chairman Deboe has the fight of his life this time, because he is fighting public sentiment in the Republican party.

Tactics of the Fairbanks workers in McCracken county, who openly aver that they are for Taft, but favor an unopposed delegation, are meeting with the disapproval of the better element of colored voters. They have held several Fairbanks meetings in dives and expect to make the dive habitues appear to reflect the sentiment of their race.

TWO KENTUCKY COUPLES MARRIED AT METROPOLIS.
Harry F. Jones and Sallie V. Thomas were married at Metropolis by Magistrate Thomas Liggett. They both went from Paducah. Claude E. Humphreys and Eunice Harper, of Mayfield, were married by Magistrate Liggett today.

H. G. T. MATTHEWS GETS TWO RAPID PROMOTIONS.
Mr. H. G. T. Matthews, a prominent railroad man of Louisville, and well known in Paducah, where he has often come, has received two promotions in five months. Five months ago Mr. Matthews was promoted to general passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific, and March 1 he will be made assistant general passenger agent of the Missouri Pacific, and the Iron Mountain railroad, with headquarters in Kansas City. His many friends in this city will be glad to learn of his promotion, but regret that he is stationed so far away from Paducah.

CITY IS FLOODED WITH BAD CHECKS BY TWO CROOKS

Several bad checks have been turned loose in the city. It is reported that two young men are guilty, one a low set, clean shaven man and the other one tall. The checks given are on the City National bank, and the handwriting is plain and easily read. To all of the checks "Geo. Langstaff, Sr." has been signed. The first check passed and reported to the police was on Herzog's butcher shop, Third street and Kentucky avenue. The check was for $10 and the young man received $9.60 in change.

Monday afternoon the same young man passed a check on William Humble, Seventh and Adams streets. Mr. Humble was busy at the time, but immediately after the sale he thought the check looked peculiar, and on telephoning to Langstaff's a bill found it was a forgery. The check was for $9.50, and was indorsed by "James Bonnette." Tuesday afternoon Mr. Humble met the man at Third and Adams streets and gave chase, but the stranger escaped him by jumping fences and running through alleys.

Tuesday night the stranger appeared at Fred Kameliter's grocery and after purchasing some goods gave Lester Yates, a clerk, a check for $10 bearing the name of "W. R. Bradford," but it was refused and the stranger left. The police have been on the trail of the men, but so far they have escaped from the clutches of the law.

Second Class City Measures Will Go to House Committee Tomorrow When Work Commences in Earnest.

Complications Keep House Adjourning Repeatedly at Most Inopportune Moments For Legislature.

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Four second class city bills are waiting the senate and are now up to the house, where the greatest difficulty is being found with legislation. The bills passed up to the house are those fixing the maximum saloon license at $500; the minimum police force at 20; giving the mayor authority to appoint the official paper, and amending the charter, so that police court revenue may be used for general purposes.

All executives of second class cities are meeting in concert in rushing this legislation, and have been successful so far. Friday the two measures in which Paducah especially is interested—increasing of maximum saloon license and changing the police force regulations, will go to the house committee on municipalities, of which Representative Klair, of Lexington, is the chairman. He has expressed himself as heartily in favor of the legislation.

If it were not for conditions generally in the house there would be little doubt of the successful enactment of these charter amendments, but the course of legislation is obstructed by the tangle of the senatorial contest and the county unit bill. It is not probable that the Democratic hold to obtain any greater proportions without outwitting the county unit bill, and the temperance workers by co-operating with him, succeed in pushing the county unit bill to the floor every time the house attempts to do anything. Then the anti-county unit folks secure an adjournment, and so, to accomplish anything it will be necessary for the second class city legislators to look sharp and rush their measure into every opening that presents itself between adjournments.

SHE SEEKS DIVORCE AFTER THIRTY YEARS

Margaret A. Gambin filed suit in circuit court yesterday against her husband, A. Gambin, for divorce and custody of her two children. The couple were married 30 years ago in Graves county and lived together until June, 1907. The wife alleges cruel treatment and abandonment as her cause of the action.

GOVERNOR'S HANDS ARE TIED BY LACK OF COOPERATION ON PART OF ASSEMBLY

Governor Willson Puts It Up to Legislature to Do Something to Stop Night Riding.

The message in part is as follows: "Turning to the executive branch of the government, we have found it criticized by the press and public, because, in spite of earnest declarations and work for the enforcement of the laws and punishment of crime, that department has not been able to prevent continued repetitions of the outrages and wrongs. Some of the criticisms are manifestly unjust. One prominent preacher assails the governor for not declaring martial law, when the governor has no more power to declare martial law under the constitution, than the preacher. Others find fault with the governor that he has tolerated open defiance of the law by the banded criminals. Without desiring to enter upon a course of explanation and defense, it is enough to call the attention of the people to the fact that there never has been a single instance brought to the attention of the governor of an open defiance of the law, but on the contrary the whole course of these cases has been a succession of acts of a guerrilla nature, conducted with the greatest secrecy, sudden descents by night without warning and without any chance to prepare for them, followed by sudden and complete disappearance of every man connected with the raid."

The only power given the governor to deter these crimes is a statute which authorizes him to expend not more than $3,000 a year and employ not more than two men for detective

RECEIVER NAMED FOR GOULD LINE, TEXAS' LARGEST

Fort Worth, Tex., Feb. 27.—On petition of the Mercantile Trust company of New York, trustee for a large number of bondholders, United States Circuit Judge A. P. McCormick, of the northern district of Texas, appointed Judge T. J. Freeman, of Dallas, general receiver of the Texas and Pacific, receiver for the International and Great Northern railroad. The petitioners allege that the railroad has defaulted in payment of interest to the extent of $194,620 on bonds; that the road is insolvent and unable to meet its operating expenses and obligations, and to defray the costs of improvements now under way. The railroad company filed its answer.

The International and Great Northern is a Gould line, and recently underwent reorganization when Leroy T. Price was superseded by Horace Clarke as general manager. Emphatic denial that the Texas and Pacific railroad is insolvent was made. The International and Great Northern is the most important railroad in the state of Texas.

Texas Commission Blamed.
One of the incidents that brought out the receivership application is said in railroad circles to have been the recent order of the Texas railroad commission to the International and Great Northern company to make betterments of its property in Texas, which would have involved an outlay of $2,000,000. There are rumors current involving the status of other trolley southwestern lines, and railroad circles and Texas generally would not be surprised if other receiverships are soon asked for.

WAIVE EXAMINATION

This morning Chester Bondurant and Daniel Wilson, contractors on a levee constructed near Hickman, who, it is alleged, worked employees over eight hours on government work, waived examination before Armour Gardner, United States commissioner, and gave $300 bond each that they would appear before the federal court, Mr. V. Carpenter waived examination yesterday and gave bond for his appearance before the court.

work, and a moment's thought will satisfy anyone that this is practically useless in this emergency. The whole military force of the commonwealth is not sufficient to garrison all the towns and places in which these crimes have occurred or there is ground to fear they may occur, and no one has claimed anywhere that the governor ought to put the whole military force of the commonwealth on duty in various places where no actual known danger threatens, because that is a violation of the law. The governor has no right to call out the military force, or any part of it, except in case of actual danger, and the state government has responded to every case of this kind.

Cannot Employ Counsel.
Other critics have complained that the governor has not employed counsel to prosecute the tobacco trust, the conduct of which is often cited in ex-

DEAL BELIEVED PENDING FOR TWO TOBACCO CROPS

Winchester, Ky., Feb. 27.—In spite of denials, it is believed a deal is on for all of the 1906 and 1907 crops of pooled tobacco. A. S. Lee, of Owensboro, and two representatives of the American Tobacco company have been inspecting samples. Unless the deal is closed today, buyers grow weary they will go to Frankfort in a body and urge the passage of the McChord bill. Over a thousand hogsheads of the pooled crop were sold to independents in the last few days.

WOMAN STANDS AT TELEPHONE WHILE SHOTS ARE FIRED

Summons Militia From Hopkinsville to Pursue Night Riders.

Another Outrage Disgraces Christian County.

TOBACCO RAIDERS ARE IN OHIO

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 27.—Night riders early today fired the residence of Bruce Gregory, a farmer west of here. His barn was burned to the ground. Gregory's wife and baby barely escaped with their lives. The riders shot into the house and the occupants crawled under beds to escape death. Mrs. Gregory telephoned an alarm to this city, notwithstanding the fact that she was fired on as she stood at the telephone. Militia are pursuing the riders. The house was reduced to ashes.

In Robertson County.
Mt. Olivet, Ky., Feb. 27.—(Special.)—Night riders fired into McMillan's store at Piqua, and then destroyed a wagon loaded with tobacco near Sardis. No one was hurt. They are the first night riders in Robertson county.

Night Riders in Ohio.
Columbus, O., Feb. 27.—Ohio state troops were rushed last night to a point twelve miles below Batavia, the county seat of Clermont county, to protect tobacco growers and buyers from fire and dynamite of night riders.

The first notification that troops had been called out was received last night by Adjutant General Critchfield in this city. Sheriff Hupp, of Clermont county, telegraphed that he had the liberty of calling out Company K, First Ohio regiment, and that the company had responded promptly to his orders and was by 8 o'clock in the Ohio river district terrorized by night riders.

Raiders advanced on the district along the Ohio river last Friday night, approaching Winchester, Adams county. Warnings had been received, however, and the tobacco growers, armed and in force, repelled the advance without bloodshed. White cap notices and threats conveyed by word of mouth have terrorized the district since the appeal was made to the sheriff. Complicating this outbreak of terrorism, a report came from Batou, Preble county, on the Indiana border, that white cap notices were posted last night on the big tobacco warehouse of Young Bros. in Eaton, demanding that the concern cease buying tobacco pending the Tobacco Growers' association efforts to list the price. The warehouse is of cement, and the notice reads:

"Your building may be fireproof, but not dynamite proof."
A tobacco warehouse near Eaton was burned to the ground last week. The work, supposedly, of night riders. Troops may be sent to Preble county.

DR. BOYD HONORED

Dr. Frank Boyd has been honored by Governor Augustus E. Willson with the appointment as surgeon general on his staff. The appointment was made known today, and it was an agreeable surprise to Dr. Boyd's friends. Dr. Boyd was major surgeon in the Third regiment in the Spanish-American war and was surgeon in charge of the division hospital at Guayama, Porto Rico.

WEATHER.

Partly cloudy tonight and Friday. Continued cold tonight, Friday warmer. Highest temperature yesterday, 40; lowest today, 26.

Paducah to Become Headquarters of Division on Illinois Central Once More Under Eight Hour Law.

Many Meetings of Officials Being Held to Change Schedules—Lack of Material Felt at Shops.

Paducah will again be made division headquarters for all the passenger trains running on the Illinois Central beginning on or before March 4, the change being made to comply with the national eight-hour law. At present the crews on the fast passenger trains run through from Louisville to Memphis and return, while under the new regime the trainmen will change crews at Paducah, making Paducah practically headquarters for all. The local passenger trains, 121 and 122, will also change crews at Paducah instead of at Fulton as heretofore.

The trainmen running on the freight trains out of Paducah will also be affected by the new law, and trains No. 151 and 152 and 154 and 155, which have been running from Paducah through to Louisville will stop at Central City.

Paducah will be greatly benefited by the new schedule, which will be the same as several years ago before division headquarters were moved from Paducah to Fulton. Practically all the trainmen will be forced to move their homes to this city causing the addition of a number of families, many of whom have lived here before and will be glad of the opportunity to return.

The arrangement of the new schedule for trainmen has been the cause of the many meetings of the officials of the road recently. In addition to the trainmen the telegraphers are affected by the new law and this fact has caused the officials to meet oftener than usual to arrange to meet the law regarding operators in effect at the same time. At the stations where it is necessary to keep operators on duty at all hours, the work has heretofore been handled by two shifts, but under the new law three shifts will be required. To meet this additional expense some of the all night offices probably will be discontinued or the schedule of freight trains arranged so that two shifts of operators can handle the train orders in the allotted time. At the Paducah Union station the third operator has already been added, while at Fulton, Central City and other important stops the same change will be made. What all night offices will be discontinued has not been given out. While the change in the schedule for the trainmen has not been officially made the informa-

CAIRO AND CUMBERLAND GAP RAILROAD PROJECT NOW SEEMS TO BE SURE THING

Hopkinsville Banker Returns With Assurances of Financial Backing.

Hopkinsville, Ky., Feb. 27.—Cashier Gua T. Brannon, of the Commercial and Savings bank, is just back from a trip to Chicago and he brings news of the most cheering sort to the people of this section, as well as to the entire southern portion of the state. That is nothing more or less than that financial arrangements have practically been made and that without doubt the active work of building the long-talked-of Cairo and Cumberland Gap railroad will be begun and rushed through to completion as rapidly as possible.

While in Chicago Mr. Brannon talked with the banks that are financing the proposition and he was assured that the investigation of its merits had been finished and a favorable report returned and that now nothing remained but for spring to open up in order to begin the work. Further than this Mr. Brannon said he was not at liberty to speak, but this message is sufficient to cause general rejoicing.

The Cairo and Cumberland Gap railroad has been agitated for many years and from time to time the announcement has been made that it would be built at a certain time, but something always prevented. The proposed route passing through Wickliffe, Mayfield, Cadiz, Hopkinsville and Elkhart and on in almost an air line to Cumberland Gap, was surveyed years ago and it is understood that the original survey will not be changed. This leaves Paducah out by nearly twenty-five miles.

Mr. Clint Huston, of Rowlandtown, is ill of pneumonia.

Close Two Days.

The employees of the car repairing department at the shops were surprised this morning at the official announcement that the department will be closed Friday and Saturday. The bulletin from the master mechanic reads the same as have all previous bulletins, giving as a reason for the shutdown the general depression of business. However, it is known that business is much better now than several weeks ago and the main trouble lies in inability to get material from manufacturers. The officials fear to use up the available supply on repairs to cars that are not absolutely needed at the present time until they are assured that the supply can be replenished as used.

No order closing the locomotive shops was received this morning, though it is probable that they will not work Saturday.

The report that the shops were to close down for two weeks March 1 is flouted by the officials and employees, between whom there is a perfect understanding. In fact, it is believed that the force and working hours will be increased before March 15, if material can be secured as needed.

Traffic Better at Pittsburg.

Announcement comes from Pittsburg of improvement there in the matter of railroad business. The greatest increases are in the movement of coal and coke.

The number of cars handled by the Pennsylvania lines west and the Pittsburg and Lake Erie last week was larger than that of any single week since the beginning of the year. During the first fifteen days of February more cars were handled from the Pittsburg district than in the entire month of January, and that is considered all the more exceptional since February is usually one of the driest traffic months of the year.

Cora Jones and Rosa Buttrum, the two girls who were injured at the Paducah Box and Basket factory last Monday morning, are getting along as well as can be expected at the Riverside hospital. Miss Jones, the back of whose head was injured, was also injured internally. These injuries are more serious than the injury to the head. Her recovery will be much slower than that of Miss Buttrum, whose arm and leg were broken.

CHARGES JEROME WITH FAILURE TO KEEP HIS PROMISE

His Removal as District Attorney Sought by Minority Traction People.

Accuse Him of Blame For Present Financial Situation.

FILED WITH GOVERNOR HUGHES

Albany, Feb. 27.—William Travers Jerome's removal from the office of district attorney of New York county was asked by William King, of the minority stockholders' committee of the Metropolitan Street Railway company, who filed charges with Governor Hughes, based upon Jerome's alleged failure to prosecute traction cases after he had been elected on his promise to do so. The charges, which cover 48 pages, state that Jerome has lost completely the confidence of the people. King maintains that much of the blame for the present state of financial affairs is due to Jerome's failure to prosecute rich and influential grafters, who have robbed the people and disgraced the city, commencing with the Lee trust and insurance scandals and then the looting of the Metropolitan Traction company.

MISSOURI STATE CONVENTION FOR WILLIAM H. TAFT ## ABUSED A HORSE

Some one drove Mr. Blane Kilgore's horse and buggy from in front of his residence, 203 Fountain avenue, last night. Early this morning the horse and buggy were found in the woods near Wallace park. The buggy was turned over and covered with mud. Mr. Kilgore's fine horse was lame and showed that it had been mistreated during the night. When first missed it was thought the horse had run away, but it is the opinion that some one stepped into the buggy last night, and had a night's use of the vehicle. Several owners of buggies have complained to the police recently.

DOLLAR DINNER GIVEN MARCH 4 BY COMMERCIAL CLUB

To afford an opportunity for the members to discuss and consider the policy, which is proposed for the Commercial club during this year, a Dollar dinner will be given at the Palmer House March 4. This dinner will have no connection with the dinner, which will be given to the St. Louis business men soon. It is the hope of the directors to have every member present if possible. Tickets for the dinner will cost $1 and may be secured from the headquarters of the Commercial club. All members are requested to get their tickets as soon as possible and to advise Mr. Saunders A. Fowler, secretary of the club, of their acceptance not later than 5 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon.

MADE FROM S.S.S. ROOTS AND HERBS A SAFE AND RELIABLE BLOOD PURIFIER

In the time of our forefathers the forests and fields were the only laboratories from which they could procure their medicines. They searched out and compounded the different roots, herbs and barks into remedies, many of which have been handed down to succeeding generations, and continuously used with satisfactory results. Among the very best of these old time preparations is S. S. S., a medicine made entirely from roots, herbs and barks, in such combination as to make it the greatest of all blood purifiers. This absolute vegetable purity of S. S. S. makes it the one medicine that may be used without fear of harmful results in any way. Most blood medicines on the market contain mercury, potash, or some other strong mineral. These act with bad effect on the system, upsetting the stomach, interfering with the digestion, affecting the bowels, and when used for a prolonged period of time often cause salivation. No such effects ever result from the use of S. S. S., and it may be taken by children as safely as by older people. For Rheumatism, Catarrh, Sores and Ulcers, Malaria, Scrofula, Skin Diseases, and all other troubles caused by impure or poisoned blood, S. S. S. is a perfect remedy. It goes down into the circulation and removes all poisons, impurities, humors or unhealthy matter, and makes the blood pure and rich. It eliminates every particle of the taint of inherited blood trouble, purifies and strengthens the weak, deteriorated blood, and establishes the foundation for good health. S. S. S. is Nature's Blood Purifier, and its many years of successful service, with a steadily increasing demand for it, is the best evidence of its value in all blood troubles. Book on the blood and any medical advice free of charge. THE SWIFT SPECIFIC CO., ATLANTA, GA.

COLUMBUS MAN DEAD.

Was Old Resident and Large Real Estate Owner.

Columbus, Ky., Feb. 27.—W. F. Taylor, one of the oldest and most prominent citizens of this community, died at his home in Columbus of pneumonia after an illness of about two weeks. Mr. Taylor was born in Hickman county on a farm where the town of Arlington now stands, on November 22, 1839. He had lived in Columbus 72 years. In his younger days he was a post officer and clerk on a Red river steamboat. He was a real estate owner and stood high in this community. He leaves a wife and one son, S. S. Taylor, of St. Louis.

Chances of Beauty.

If we take at random a hundred girls of 20 years of age from the lower classes and a hundred from the well-to-do class, we shall find that the probabilities of beauty are proportionately as four is to six; that is to say, if there are six pretty girls in the rich contingent there will be no more than four in the other. Moreover, by the time the four poorer girls reach 30 the probability is that not more than one of the four will still have any marks of beauty; at the same age it is equally probable that not more than one of the richer girls will have to lament the loss of her charms. At the age of 40 it is like to think of finding any pretty women whatever except among the well-to-do classes.

If beauty is a gift of the gods, grace may be acquired. How often have I seen and admired staid-looking women carrying on their heads heavy jars filled with water, walking along with noble, lithe steps, their hands on their hips. In these women every gesture, their whole attitude, the rhythmic cadence of their movements had an indefinable grace, for from their earliest infancy they had familiarized themselves with this particular exercise. Put them in a ball-room, however, and before they had made one turn their clumsiness would appear brutally evident to every eye.—Grand.

NO REPUBLICANS ARE RECOGNIZED

Speaker Pro Tem of House Acts With Great Discourtesy.

Is Called Down at End of the Session and Fights Are Narrowly Averted.

HOTTEST DAY THIS SESSION

Frankfort, Ky., Feb. 27.—Several fights were narrowly averted as a consequence of the rulings of J. F. Porter, who was in the chair as presiding officer of the house. Sawyer A. Smith, the Republican floor leader, took Mr. Porter to task for his rulings, and during the course of his remarks referred to Mr. Porter as a "d—d scoundrel."

The two men were about to get together in a general mix-up when friends interfered. C. W. G. Hannah and C. W. Longmire also had words after the adjournment of the house and for a few minutes it looked like a free-for-all fight might result. The Republicans were thoroughly angry and say they expect to continue the fight on the floor of the house.

Refusal to recognize a Republican member is regarded generally as the height of rough-riding and the Republicans are denouncing such treatment. They say it was not only unfair and unparliamentary, but also discourteous, and they propose to see that it is stopped. Mr. Porter had his hands full all the time he was in the chair, and adjourned the house when the large majority of the members voted no. John P. Haswell and other Republicans say they were treated with great discourtesy, even from a partisan, and they do not propose to stand for it.

Gooch Returns.

Speaker W. J. Gooch returned from Louisville. He was there having his throat treated. He will be in the chair and the Republican members are glad to see him, for they feel that he is a fair man and will at least treat them with courtesy. Mr. Gooch had heard of the rough times in the house, and smiled when he was told that the Republicans were glad to see him. He has done a little riding himself at times, but he has always shown consideration for the Republicans and has been fair to them.

When the house adjourned at 1:30 Mr. Smith met Mr. Porter at the door of the cloakroom. According to a witness, Mr. Smith called Mr. Porter to one side and said to him:

"I want to say to you, Mr. Porter, that you noted a d—d scoundrel in the house."

"You do not mean that," replied Mr. Porter.

"I most certainly do mean it. I say that you are a d—d scoundrel," said Mr. Smith.

Bystanders Prevent Fight.

More words passed regarding the ruling, Mr. Porter insisting that if Mr. Smith had been in the chair he would have done as Mr. Porter had done. Mr. Smith denied this, and said that no matter what the motion to have been made might be, he would have recognized the leader of the other side. The lie finally was passed by Mr. Smith and Mr. Porter drew back his umbrella to strike Mr. Smith. The latter caught Mr. Porter's arm and just then the crowd surged in between them to prevent a fight. Mr. Hannah objected to the way Mr. Longmire had taken a written

DISCRIMINATING LADIES

Enjoy Using Herpicide on Account of Its Distinctiveness.

The ladies who have used Newbro's Herpicide speak of it in the highest terms, for its quick effect in cleansing the scalp of dandruff and also for its excellence as a general hair-dressing. It makes the scalp feel fresh and it always that itching which dandruff will cause. Newbro's Herpicide effectively cures dandruff, as it destroys the germ that causes it. The same germ causes hair to fall out, and later baldness; in killing it Herpicide stops falling hair and prevents baldness. It is also an ideal hair dressing, for it lends an aristocratic charm to the hair that is quite distinctive. Sold by leading druggists. Two sizes, 50c. and $1.00. appeal, apparently to hand it to the clerk and instead putting it in his pocket. Mr. Hannah said to him after the house had adjourned:

"If I was not law-abiding, I would have knocked you down."

"Don't let a little thing like the law interfere," replied Mr. Longmire, but this ended the row. No blows were struck.

Excitement Runs High.

Several other fights were had and a general fight might have started at the slightest provocation, for everybody was worked up to a high pitch of excitement. It was the liveliest day which has been seen in the house for several years and reminded some of the old times of the days when gins were drawn and the speaker's gavel was used as a weapon of offense. The Republicans are swearing vengeance and say they will start the ball rolling as soon as the house is called to order.

No Republican member was recognized and none had a chance to make any motion.

THEATRICAL NOTES

"The Lion and the Mouse."

There is nothing sensational about "The Lion and the Mouse," the successful drama of American life which Henry B. Harris will present here, except the tremendous popularity which the play achieved on the night of the opening performance and which has since grown in volume until all America is discussing this latest work of Charles Klein. The story of "The Lion and the Mouse" has to do with the so-called upper class of Americans, and the author has treated them in such an original, vigorous and truthful manner, the drama has a compelling interest which is positively fascinating to the playgoer. The principal character is John Burkett Ryder, in whom playgoers will recognize a well known American, famous as the richest man in America and also very much in the public eye at the present time because of his ability to dodge subpoena servers. The opposite leading figure is Shirley Rossmore, daughter of an upright judge, whom Ryder and his political friends seek to disgrace because of a ruling that was distasteful to them. The other principal characters include a United States senator, and his daughter; an ex-judge of the supreme court; Jefferson Ryder, son of the millionaire; the Rev. Pontifex Deotie and his sister Jane, well meaning folks of highly religious principles and some dozen others whom playgoers will be quick to recognize as types common to every day life. "The Lion and the Mouse" will be the attraction at The Kentucky this evening.

"The Man of the Hour."

George Broadhurst's play, "The Man of the Hour," which will be seen here for the first time at The Kentucky March 8, has stirred up more interest and excited more favorable comment for the American drama than any play seen in this country in many years. It has frequently been called a drama of today and quite truthfully so, because it deals with the subject of municipal graft than which there is no topic of more vital interest to the citizens of this country at the present time. It is a play that pulsates with big emotion, powerful human interests and tender romance. It is a story of throbbing heart beats centered in a material topic of all-absorbing and universal moment. The characters are types of individuals familiar in the daily life of every American, no matter in what part of the country he lives. The play has had an extraordinary success, having had a run of two years at the Savoy theater, New York City, and in addition to the company appearing here three other companies are playing throughout the United States. The company which will be seen here is a big one in every respect and is imposing in the large number of able and experienced actors it contains. The list of names include: Orrin Johnson, Robert A. Fischer, Harold Russell, George C. Staley, Thomas Meighan, William Deming, Samuel C. Hunt, Samuel Forrest, Bennett Southard, Frank Russell, Basil West, Edward Culver and the Misses Francis Ring, Louise Everts and Kate Lester.

Australian Nicknames.

Leisure is regarded as so notable a characteristic of Tasmania that it bears the nickname of "the land of lots of time" or "the land of sleep a lot," while its inhabitants are called "fossies" and "jam eaters," the latter being an allusion to the island's great fruit farms. "Cornstalks," as our general sporting appellation of Australians applies in strictness to the people of New South Wales only, in account of the height and slenderness. Because Victoria is noted for its gum trees Victorians are required to answer to the inelegant sobriquet of "gum-suckers," while South Australians are "crow eaters," in reference to the use of crows as food in times of drought. The large banana plantations of Queensland gives its people the name of "banana eaters," and the hot and arid wastes of West Australia explain the term "band groopers." London Chronicle.

A Return From Newport.

Messrs. John T. Donovan, Harry Kiler and George Welkel have returned from Newport, where they attended the installation of a new lodge of the Knights of Columbus with a membership of 75. About 100 visiting members were in attendance at the installation ceremonies, which were followed by an elaborate banquet.

RELIC OF THE PAST

BALTIMORE CARRIAGE RECALLS THE DAYS OF OLD.

Six Times It Carried Its Owner Across the Continent—Stood Well the Long Journeys.

Like a refurbished nugget from the days of '49 "The Old Spider," a carriage that used to make transcontinental trips from Baltimore to San Francisco, long years before the founding of the national gunset limited was heard in the Rockies as once again at the carriage factory of William Bowers & Sons, in Saratoga street, opposite the Hotel Bennett, near the Baltimore Sun.

"The Old Spider" was built in 1850 by William Bowers, who died three years ago at the age of ninety-two. Now Mr. Bowers' son, also named William, and his grandson, a third William, are refurbishing the carriage, while little William Bowers, fourth takes interest in the work.

The vehicle was constructed for Louis McLane, a Baltimore capitalist, who died about two years ago at the age of nearly four score and ten. When a young man Mr. McLane became a naval officer, and once his vessel landed on the Pacific gold coast of 1849. He resigned from the navy and went into the mining business. Then, like Napoleon Bonaparte, he decided to earn money with his brains instead of his hands, and became treasurer of the Wells-Fargo Express company. He made an immense fortune, and was a figure in the financial world until his death.

But, despite his success, Mr. McLane began to pine for the civilization of the East, and one day he got into a wagon and started for Baltimore, arriving here several months after starting.

Once home, and knowing he would soon have to go West again, he went to Mr. Bowers and told him to make the strongest and most carriage possible for the trip. Mr. Bowers gave special instructions to his carpenter and blacksmiths, and "The Old Spider" was the result. Its two seats were made wide and comfortable, all the trim work was hand-finished, and to shield the occupants from the sun a large oblong "umbrella" of buff-colored goods lined with purple material was put up.

In the carriage Mr. McLane returned to the Pacific coast. "The Old Spider" did not seem to mind the trip at all, and so when he came back to Baltimore again it was under the same old buff canopy. Six times did Mr. McLane go to California and return to Baltimore in "The Old Spider," and the vehicle absolutely refused to break or show a weak spot.

Some time ago "The Old Spider" was bought by D. K. Este Fisher, who decided to bring it out into the sunlight once more and have it "repaired." He took it to the grandson of the man who built it, and was considerably astonished when Mr. Bowers showed him that not a bolt was needed and that "The Old Spider" was as sound as the day it left the factory.

Not a spoke in the original wheels was missing or splintered. The tires were found as strong as ever, and even the springs and joints were in condition for more transcontinental trips. The canopy showed not a hole or tear, the trimmings even being as good as new. The goutskin lining of the seat showed few marks of wear and the oilcloth in the bottom was not worn through.

Mr. Fisher decided, however, that "The Old Spider" should have a new coat of paint, a new canopy and new seat lining. The carriage is now in the hands of the painters, and when it emerges in a fresh coat of black and green it will be in condition to roll up Charles street alongside the most modern brougham.

Mr. Bowers is taking great pride in the restoration of "The Old Spider," and points to it as perhaps the most remarkable specimen of the thorough workmanship of his grandfather.

Unprecedented.

Nothing like this ever happened before. A patient that has been treated for appendicitis died and what do you think the post-mortem showed? The fellow really had appendicitis!—Jensen

HOW I CAME TO BE A FARMER.

(Original.)

When I was a young man, having read a great deal about the failure of officials to find and bring to justice illicit distillers in Tennessee, I was seized with a desire to try my hand at the business. Polk county awarded with moonshiners, and to Polk county I went. Hencel the locality that I sought, I began operations by pumping the inhabitants. Passing a farmhouse I saw a good looking young woman on the porch taking care of a couple of little children. I dismounted, went in and asked for a drink of water. The woman pointed to a gourd hanging in a well house, and I helped myself. Then, before asking any questions, I played with the children with a view to opening a way to the mother's confidence.

"Sorry your husband isn't at home," I said. "I'm looking out for timber lands. Perhaps he might know of some to sell."

"I haven't got a husband," she replied. "I'm a widder."

She went on to tell me that it was hard for her to get on since her husband's death. The country was ruined by the illicit distilling that was going on. Instead of farming, everybody was making whisky, and that kept respectable people away.

"Would you," I asked, "be willing to do something to get rid of the moonshiners?"

"Well, I don't like to get my neighbors down on me."

"But supposing you could make a nice thing of it?"

"What do you call a nice thing?"

I turned to him and was willing to pay for the information I desired.

"Look a-here, stranger," she said. "You ain't after lumber; you're a-huntin' stills. Now, if you double that what you said, it's a go."

I complied with the terms, and she gave me minute information as to where I could find a half dozen secret whisky manufacturers, with the names of persons who knew all about them and could testify to their existence and ownership in court.

Having blessed the children—I wanted to kiss the widow, too; she was very tempting—I mounted my horse, confirmed the information given me by pretending to stumble on the stills while hunting timber lands, then rode to the county seat and swore out warrants for the persons whose names had been given me as the owners and keepers of the stills.

Some time was required to serve the papers, and it was several weeks before we were ready for trial. Meanwhile I called frequently on the widow, becoming quite at home in her house, taking the children out to walk with me while their mother was busy with her household duties. I feared that my being so much at her home would lead those whom I was prosecuting to suspect that she had given me the necessary information, but they didn't seem to trouble her. I began to feel that I would not mind settling in Tennessee with a view to ministering to the widow and the fatherless.

When the case came up for trial it became apparent that the stills I had seen were small ones, the main stills where the bulk of the whisky was made remaining undiscovered. The fees paid the witnesses—whose testimony was worthless—cost the state a round penny, and the amount paid the widow was a good loss to me. I was riding away from the courthouse much discomfited when one of my witnesses overtook me.

"Stranger," he said, "what'd you us give for some more information?"

"Nothing."

"Well, I'll give it to you anyway. The widder that put you on to 'em owned the mill kit. Her husband owned all the big stills about here, and when he was shot a year ago by a revenue officer his widder tuk the property and has been runnin' it ever since. Hyar's a paper she writ you uns."

He handed me a missive from the widow inviting me to take supper with her that evening. I thanked the man for his information and, turning, rode to the widow's home.

"Stranger," she said, "I hain't no great lover fer still hunters, seed; my husband was shot by a 'revenue,' but I hain't got over your takin' a shine to Tommy and Maudie. Here's the money you uns paid me fer puttin' you uns on to the stills. I own 'em, and the witnesses I give you' air all in my employ. Reckon it wouldn't be right to take pay fer that. The state can afford to pay the witness fees."

We were soon seated at a table on which was a delicious supper of ham and eggs, biscuit, corn bread and coffee. The widow did everything she could to make me forget my failure to break up moonshining in Polk county, and by the time I had finished my supper I was in a very contented frame of mind. While I smoked she put her children to bed, and during the time she was "doin'" the dishes I went into the room where the little tots lay and played with them till she had finished. When they were asleep the widow sat down beside me and said:

"I want to git out o' this moonshinin'. I'm a lone woman, and, though I'm no fool at turnin' off 'revenues,' I hain't got the head fer turnin' my property into money."

"You're a rough diamond," I said, drawing her to me. "I'll help you out on one condition."

"What is it?"

"That you marry me."

"She consented, and in a short time I had turned her stills into cash, with which I stocked the farm. Meanwhile we were married, and I make a much better farmer than detective.

ABNORMAL TIMES.

"All who study the history of our country," said Joe Cannon, "will find that about every once in so often a period of abnormal activity, led by an abnormal man, develops. However, if the study is pursued, you will find that the storm soon blows over and when the sun came out we were still doing business at about the same old gait, in the same old way, at the same old place."

We are pessimistic enough to believe that Uncle Joe is right—after while we shall revert to the old way of doing things; but the country will be the better for these abnormal times.
When all the evil, which we regard with newly awakened consciousness, have been removed and the public mind has been lulled into apathy, greed will stealthily re-establish itself in the strongholds from which it is being dislodged, and then another "abnormal" man will be raised up and drive it out again. "This thus the world grows better, gaining and slipping back, but never quite to the old level —and Uncle Joe, grown gray and matured under a system of politics, that is just now ineffective, will not live to see the system restored to vogue.
The influence of Roosevelt will live longer than the memory of Cannon.
A new school of young politicians has developed since Roosevelt came to the fore, and they must have their day before the old regime is restored.

If Roosevelt is an abnormal man, Washington must have been somewhat so. Assuredly Patrick Henry must have been considered something more than ordinary by the Tories of his time. Andrew Jackson was abnormal, and he left a lasting impression on his country. Hughes, Folk, Governor Johnson, Tom Johnson, James A. Garfield, Senator Beveridge, William H.
Taft, and quite an astounding array of abnormal men are to be found in public life today. Are they all mere sympathetic reflections of the abnormal mind in the white house? Then the speaker passes a wonderful compliment on the president.

But why speak in scorn of the abnormal man? Speaker Cannon will scarcely deny that the progressive policies of the administration are all right—strengthening the Monroe doctrine in the western hemisphere; maintaining the open door in Asia; improving trade relations with the countries of each; increasing the merchant marine; building the Panama canal; systematically improving the internal waterways; conserving the forests; and protecting the public domain, cattle ranges and mineral resources.

The speaker will not dare say the abuses Roosevelt has exposed are not real. If he complains at the method employed, he should suggest a better one. Can one clean a ditch and escape the smell? Can one expel wrong doing and not expose the wrong? Must one then suffer the wrong rather than expose it?

Too long this country's resources have been exploited under the benign sway of genial gentlemen in office, who have considered it no part of their duty to poke their executive noses into other people's affairs. They kept themselves personally clean and let it go at that.

If this country were a great business concern and Roosevelt chosen executive head of it, we should expect him to ferret out abuses and reduce the conduct of the business to a system. That is what he has done, and the fact that those who have been under suspicion are bitter against him, is proof enough of their guilt and his zeal.

In a way, not to his discredit, Roosevelt is abnormal; but it requires an abnormal effort to arouse the public conscience. Demagogues have shouted themselves hoarse in every generation; but their false doctrines have found no response.

"The voice of the people is the voice of God." Joe Cannon has heard the cry of the mob many times, and he, perhaps, has failed to distinguish between the two. He has seldom heard the people speak during his political career. He, like many another, fails to perceive that back of this concrete expression of the will of the people, of this abnormal activity in the white house, there is statesmanship of the highest order, that is progressive and successful. Eight years more of the policies of this administration, executed by a cabinet of the same calibre, and our merchant marine will dot the seas with our flag; our trade will be dominant in South America and Asia, our exports will multiply our commercial and industrial activity by three, and our government will be on such a sound basis that only experts may aspire to departmental positions.

BRAVO WOODFORD.

The account in the Courier-Journal yesterday of the mass-meeting of citizens of Woodford county and their organization of a Law and Order League is another cheering demonstration that a wholesome, just and patriotic spirit is asserting itself in some parts of the state, at least, says the Courier-Journal. The people of Hopkinsville, a city that has suffered much from the torch of the night rider, some time ago formed a similar league and began to exert whatever influence they could upon the lawmakers at Frankfort. Woodford county's citizens should prove a valuable auxiliary to the forces of law and order. Their county is one of the best and most enlightened in the state. Its citizens are of the "salt of the earth." When Woodford lifts its voice against the writers of anonymous letters, senders of cartridges and the outlaws who have been threatening its people and terrorizing other counties of the state, the effect should be beneficial. The resolutions adopted by the Woodford county meeting are to the point:

"Whereas Certain peaceful and law-abiding citizens of our county having received through the medium of the United States mail letters containing infamous and diabolical threats, the intention of those having said threats sent being not only to intimidate and coerce those to whom they were sent, but also to inaugurate a reign of terror in our community; be it therefore

"Resolved, That we, the citizens of Woodford county, in mass meeting assembled, denounce such atrocious attempts as unlawful, uncivilized and inhuman, and that we hereby pledge ourselves to defend and protect each citizen of our county in his every legal right; be it further

"Resolved, That we forthwith organize ourselves into a law and order league, the purpose of which shall be to uphold the law, and assist our county and state officials in detecting and punishing all violations of the law, without fear and without favor, to the end that we may save our beloved county from that dreadful wave of lawlessness and crime now sweeping over our unhappy state."

Such a spirit as this, coupled with the fearless charge of Judge Stout to the grand jury, lifts up a sign of promise in a state that seems now a wilderness of outlawry and rebellion.
If the Woodford league would go a bit farther in its activities in behalf of the suppression of the tobacco rebellion it might beseech the general assembly to transform itself into a law and order body.

The Spoilers.

Since evicting the owners, the receptor had erected substantial houses in place of the tents he had found on the mine. They were of frame and corrugated iron, sheathed within and suited to withstand a moderate exposure.
The partners had witnessed the operation from a distance, but knew nothing about the buildings from close examination.

A thrill of affection for this place warmed the young man. He loved this old mine. It had realized the dream of his boyhood and had answered the hope he had clung to during his long fight against the northland. It had come to him when he was disheartened, bringing cheer and happiness, and had yielded itself like a bride. Now it seemed a crime to ravage it.

He crept toward the nearest wall and listened. Within was the sound of voices, though the windows were dark, showing that the inhabitants were on the alert. Beneath the foundations he caught mysterious preparations, then sought out the office building and took down the door. He found that back of the seeming repose of the Mines there was a strained expectancy.

Although suspense had lengthened the time out of all calculation, he judged he had been gone from his companions at least an hour and that they were not in place by now. If they were not—if anything failed at this eleventh hour—well, those were the fortunes of war. In every enterprise, however carefully planned, there comes a time when chance must take its turn.

He made his way inside the blacksmith shop and fumbled for a match.
Just as he was about to strike it he heard the swish of oil cloth passing and waited for some time. Then, lighting his punk and lifting it under his coat, he opened the door to listen.
The wind had died down now, and the rain sang musically upon the metal roofs.

He ran swiftly from house to house, and when he had done, at the apex of the triangle he had traced three glowing coils were smoldering.

The final bolt was launched at last.
He stepped down into the ditch and drew his .45, while to his startled senses it seemed that the very hills leaped forth in breathless haste, that the rain had ceased and the whole night hushed its thousand voices. He found his lower jaw set so stiffly that the muscles ached. Leveling his weapon at the eaves of the bunk house, he pulled the trigger rapidly, the bang, bang, bang, six times repeated, sounding dull and dead beneath the blanket of mist that overhung. A shout sounded behind him, and then the shriek of a Winchester ball close over his head.

He turned in time to see another shot stream out of the darkness, where a sentry was firing at the flash of his gun, then bent himself double and plunged down the ditch.

With the first impact overhead the men poured forth from their quarters armed and bristling, to be greeted by a volley of bullets, the third of bullets and the dwindling whine of spent lead. They leaped from shelter to find themselves girded with a tidal hoop of fire, for the "Strangers" had spread in the air of a circle and now emptied their rifles toward the center. The defenders, however, maintained surprising order considering the suddenness of their attack and ran to join the sentries, whose positions could be determined by the nearer flashes. The voice of a man in authority shouted loud commands. No demonstration came from the outer ranks, nothing but the wicked streaks that stabbed the darkness. They suddenly behind McNamara's men the night glared luridly as though a great furnace door had opened and then changed shot, while with it came a hoarse thumping near the rifle pits.

They saw the cock horse disrupt itself and disintegrate into a thousand flying timbers and twisted sheets of tin which soared upward and outward over their heads and into the night.
As the reeking hills ceased echoing the sound of the vigilantes' rifles resounded like the cracking of dry sticks, then everywhere about the defenders the earth was lashed by falling debris, while the iron roof rang at the fusil-lades.

The blast had come at their very elbows, and they were too dazed and shaken by it to grasp its significance.
Then, before they could realize what it boded, the depths lit up again till the raindrops were outlined distinct and glistening like a gossamer veil of silver, while the office building to their left was ripped and rended and the adjoining walls leaped out into sudden relief, their shattered windows looking like ghostly, sightless eyes.
The curtain of darkness closed heavier than velvet, and the men covered in their tracks, shielding themselves behind the nearest objects or behind one another's bodies, waiting for the sky to vomit over them its rain of missiles. Their backs were to the vigi-lantes now, their faces to the center.
Many had dropped their rifles. The thunder of hoofs and the scream of terrified horses came from the stables. The cry of a maddened beast is wild and calculated to curdle the blood at best, but with it arose a human voice, shrieking from pain and fear of death.

A wretched and doubled mass of zinc had hurtled out of the heavens and struck some one down. The choking hoarseness of the man's appeal broke the story, and those about him broke into flight to escape what might follow, to escape this danger they could not see but which swooped out of the blackness above and against which there was no defense. They fled only to witness another and greater flight behind them by which they saw themelves running, falling, groveling.

This time they were hurled from their balance by a concussion which dwarfed the two preceding ones. Some few stood still, staring at the rolling smoke bank as it was revealed by the explosion, their eyes gleaming white, while others buried their faces in their hollowed arms as if to shut out the hellish glare, or to shield themselves from a blow.

Out in the heart of the chaos rang a voice loud and clear:

"Beware the next blast!"

At the same instant the grille of sharpshooters rose up snuffing the air with their cries and charged in like madmen through the rain of debris.
They fired as they came, but it was unnecessary, for there was no longer a fight. It was a rout. The defenders, feeling they had escaped destruction only by a happy chance in leaving the bunk house the instant they did, were not minded to tarry here where the heavens fell upon their heads. To augment their consternation, the horses had broken from their stalls and were plunging through the confusion. Fear swept over the men, blind, unreasoning, contagious, and they rushed out into the night, colliding with their enemies, overrunning them in the panic to quit this spot.

Some dashed off the cliff and fell among the pits and shafts. Others ran up the mountain side, and cowered in the brush like quail.

As the "Strangers" assembled their prisoners near the ruins, they heard wounded men moaning in the darkness, so lit torches and searched out the stricken ones. Glimsers came running through the smoke pall, revolver in hand, crying:

CARNEGIE PRAISES ROOSEVELT.

Ironmaster Approves Course of Interstate Commerce Commission.

New York, Feb. 27.—Andrew Carnegie thoroughly approves of the interstate commerce commission, and has outlined his views on that body in an article in the March Century entitled "My Experience With Railway Rates and Rebates." In the course of which the writer warmly praises Mr.
Roosevelt's attitude toward the railroads.

The ironmaster describes the growth of the rate question through such phases as "gentlemen's agreements" to rebates and the "community of interest" idea, and then says:
"The president has performed a great service, focusing the attention of the country upon certain crying evils and the present course of the government is all that could be desired.
The dead past is to bury its past. It is rapidly doing so."

Races at Auditorium Bldg.

Last night an enthusiastic crowd was at the rink and enjoyed some fine sport.

First race—Eudriss, first; Iseman, second. Time 1:05.

Second race—Lagerwahl, first; Shelton, second; Owen, third. Time, 1:14.

Special race—Eudriss, first. Rosenthal, second. Time, 54 seconds.

Each race was four laps.

Tomorrow, Friday night, there will be a race between the champions of last night's races. Lagerwahl held the championship for a longer time than any one and a race between him and Eudriss, the present champion, should be an exciting one.

TOBACCO SALES
BY ASSOCIATION
ON LOCAL MARKET

Seventeen hogheads of association tobacco were sold by Salesman Veale at the following prices:

3 hogheads lugs ..... $ 8.00 1 hoghead leaf ..... 10.50 13 hogheads leaf, .... $11 and $12.

About 1,500 hogheads of association tobacco are now on the Paducah market, and, considering that it is very early in the season, the sales made so far have been satisfactory, according to statements of the officials.

Salesman Veale stated this morning that the highest price received to date was 14 cents a pound for one hog-head, which is the only one received so far that graded that high. The hoghead was sold the first day of offer.

Reports from surrounding towns are to the effect that heavy deliveries are being made to the prize houses, but the prizes are not working the tobacco fast, on account of the unfavorable weather for prizeing, and under instructions from the general manager of the association the tobacco must be in first-class condition before being placed in the hoghead.

Loose Tobacco Sales.

Loose tobacco sales in the wagon has almost become a thing of the past in this section, so closely has the territory been worked by the independent buyers and the association organizers, and fully 95 per cent of the tobacco grown is either pledged to the association or contracted for by the buyers by the time the tobacco is cured and ready for stripping. The few straggling loads that come in unsold are bought by the independent buyers, the prices paid being about the same as paid for tobacco contracted for early in the season.

Heavy deliveries are being made to all the tobacco warehouses today and it is estimated that probably a quarter of a million pounds was received in all at the association prize houses and by the independent buyers. The prices paid by the independent buyers range from 4 to 7 cents for lugs and from 5 to 11 cents for leaf.

CORONER RESIGNS FROM MUR-DER INQUIRIES.

Official Has Delicacy in "Probing Matters Which Do Not Concern" Him.

Lexington, Ky., Feb. 27.—Nicholas Combs, coroner of Breathitt county, has resigned. Since there have been in the neighborhood of fifty violent deaths in Breathitt county, mostly murders, since Combs took the office three years ago, he was asked why he wanted to turn it over to some one else. He said:

"You see, I am a peaceful man and do not care to probe into matters that do not concern me. Had there been a suicide or murder mystery, I might have gotten a fee from it, but to inquire into a case of murder, is too much like meddling with somebody's business, and I will not do it."

TAFT FAR AHEAD IN NEBRASKA.

Opposition Up to Date Has Shown Little Strength.

Omaha, Feb. 27.—The manager of the Nebraska Taft campaign has given out a statement showing that fifty counties have thus far held their primaries and elected 291 state delegates, of which 195 are instructed for Taft, 54 for Roosevelt and 43 are undecided but favor Taft. In the Sixth district, where La Follette supporters have been the busiest, the boom of the Wisconsin man has about collapsed. Two counties in the district have instructed their delegates for Taft. The fifty-four delegates instructed for Roosevelt are from Lancaster county, Mr. Ryan's home. During the present week ten more counties will hold convention primaries.
They have already held caucuses which indicate a preference for Taft.

PREACHER AND DOCTOR IN SERIOUS DIFFICULTY.

Elberry, Mo., Feb. 27.—The Rev.
C. W. Dow, pastor of the Methodist church, south, is a fugitive since a warrant was issued for his arrest. Following the death of Miss Lizzie Gleason, a pretty school teacher, Dr. W. A.
Hemphill was arrested and released on bond. The coroner's jury returned a verdict of death from peritonitis as the result of an operation. The girl made a death-bed statement. Hemphill admits the operation, saying her condition was not serious and he considered the treatment justified.

WHY NOT JOIN THE

Income Extension
SOCIETY?

Your salary, wages, fees, commissions—no matter in what guise your income reaches you—should not entirely "satisfy" you.
You should be alert to "piece it out," to extend it. For that is merely "making the most of it."

"THE INCOME EXTENSION SOCIETY" is purely a fictitious name for a very real and very active class of people in this city—THE PEOPLE WHO USE THE CLASSIFIED ADVERTISING COL-UMNS OF THE SUN.

Some of these "income extenders" use the classified ads. for securing better employment, with higher wages. Some of them find them useful in securing private pupils for otherwise idle evenings.
Some secure tenants, boarders, roomers, buyers for the notated things in the house.

If you will look over the classified columns of THE SUN today you will get a hint of the sort of people who believe in "income extension" and how they go about the matter.

The dress rehearsal last night at The Kentucky went off without a hitch and was a brilliant promise for the success of the performance. The D. A. R. chapter under whose auspices the operetta will be presented, is especially fortunate in giving it at this time and so being able to secure the assistance of such clever professional artists as Mr. and Mrs. James A. Young in the cast. Mrs. Young (Lillian Lancaster) makes a charming "Dora" and Mr. Young as "Tom-moly," the Irish castaway, is simply irresistible. The support given them by Miss Ham, Mr. Robert Scott, Mr. Richard Scott and the chorus of 31 voices, is all that it should be from such effective local talent.

The tickets went on sale at the box office this morning and the indication is for a crowded house tomorrow night.

There will be a rehearsal tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Bagley hall. The final rehearsal will be Friday afternoon at The Kentucky.

SUSPECTED MAD DOG WAS SLAIN LAST EVENING.

After biting several dogs, a mad dog was killed late yesterday afternoon in Fourth and Broad streets by Ed Skillman. The dog, it is said, belonged to a man living on a shantytown on Island creek, and had the whole street to himself for a while. Mr. Skillman secured a pistol and then several shots into the dog before it was killed. So far as learned the dog did not bite any children but several narrow escapes were had by small children. The dogs that were bitten by the mad dog will be watched and will be killed if they show any signs of hydrophobia.

Firemen at the central fire station, besides being a good company of fire extinguishers, are able to make repairs about the old station that are useful. Yesterday afternoon Captain Collins and his men were raising the brick floor where it had sunk, by the heavy wheels of the aerial ladder. The bricks were raised and the job was accepted by Chief Wood. Recently the firemen replaced the floor of one of the horse's stalls with a brick floor and raised it several inches so that water would not run into it from the outside during a heavy rain.

All over the country questions affecting the public schools are alive and stirring. Among these questions those which concern salaries for teachers have, in a number of cities, for several years been especially acute. The legislature of New York is now considering a bill to equalize the payment of men and women teachers for equal work. At present a man may receive a higher salary than a woman, who is his official superior and the

IN MASON

TOBACCO AND SENATORIAL RACE COMPLICATED.

Interesting Contest for Seat Vacated By Death of Late Virgil McKnight.

Maysville, Ky., Feb. 27.—Politics will be largely eliminated and tobacco made the leading issue in the campaign now on in Mason county to elect a representative to fill out the unexpired term of the late Virgil Mc-Knight, and it is evident at this time that the Democrats have a shade the best of the argument. This was practically determined by both political parties in the naming of candidates to contest for the office. The county Democratic committee unanimously chose S. A. Shanklin, chairman of the Mason county board of control of the Society of Equity, to make the race on the Democratic ticket, while the Republicans in mass-convention nominated Charles C. Dogman, a strong anti-Equity man, to lead the fight, and while he is regarded as one of the most prominent and influential farmers in the county his nomination does not meet the approval of Equity Republicans.

As an offset to the Republicans who may desert the party nominee, practically the entire anti-tobacco element in the Democratic party in the city of Maysville who are not directly interested in the Equity movement, will, it is said, line up with the opposition if the Democratic nominee pledges himself to vote for Beckham.

The same view is entertained by a number of anti-Beckham Democrats who are farmers and Equity men and who contend that the Equity fight has been won and that Beckham is still the principal issue at stake.

Asked the Fireman Up.
When the first fire company, in response to an alarm, reached the long row of tenements, the fire captain at once jumped from his engine and endeavored to locate the fire. When he had ineffectually hunted through three or four structures for it, he described an old woman sticking her head out of an eighth-story tenement, a little further up the street.

"Any fire up there?" he yelled, when he had reached the pavement beneath this building.

In answer, the old woman motioned for him to come up.

Accordingly, the captain, with his men lugging their heavy hose behind them, laboriously ascended the eight flights and burst into the room where the old woman was.

"Where's the fire?" demanded the captain, when no fire or smoke became visible.

"Oh, there ain't none here," replied the old woman, flashing an ear-trumpet.
"I asked 'y' up 'cause I couldn't hear a word 'y' said 'way down there!'"—Cleveland Leader.

RACE GAMBLING

WILL SHORTLY BE THING OF PAST, SAYS FOLK.

Missouri's Governor Thinks Awakening of Country Will Be Permanent.

New York, Feb. 27.—Attacking racketeering gambling as a prolific breeder of crime and supporting the efforts being made to end this form of gambling in this state, Governor Joseph W. Folk, of Missouri, addressed the Civic Forum at Carnegie hall last night.

Governor Folk's subject was "The Era of Conscience." He declared that within a short time the legalized vice of racketeering gambling would be a thing of the past from one end of the country to the other. The speaker expressed the belief that the awakening, which the country was undergoing, would prove permanent. In the era of conscience, now beginning, he said, stock and grain gambling must go.

Governor Folk said in part:
"The president of the United States sent a remarkable message to the congress a few weeks ago devoted to moral ideas. Such a message from a president six years ago would have been received with derision. In this era of conscience it received applause, regardless of political faith, and the great leader of the opposition party gave it his hearty and sincere approval. The time was that corrupt men, when attacked, would hide behind the shield of party and claim that party was being assailed, just as other wrong-doers would assert that an attack on their evil doings means an attack on business. We are now learning that a racial is a racial still, no matter with what party he affiliates."

Governor Folk praised Governor Hulth's stand on the question of racetrack gambling and added:

"I am not sure just what kind of meeting this is. I do not know whether it is simply a gathering of citizens or whether it is some politican caucus for the purpose of advancing the candidacy of some one for president. If it be the latter, why perhaps I might be somewhat out of place, being a Democrat, and as such, of course, hope for Mr. Bryan for president. Nevertheless, I could say that, if it, in the wisdom of the people of this country, they should see fit to give us another Republican president, I am sure that a more honorable man could be found anywhere than Mr. Hughes, of New York state."

cause for the work of the night riders, although in the case at Edgelyville it is not claimed in the dispatches that the tobacco troubles or the trusts had nothing to do with violently taking ten people from their homes and whipping and threatening them, but it does not remind the general assembly, familiar with our laws, of the fact that there is no law or power given to the governor to employ any lawyer to prosecute any offense committed against the commonwealth. The constitution and law have established a judicial department with commonwealth's attorneys and county attorneys elected by the people, and while the governor may employ counsel to prosecute claims for money, he cannot employ any counsel to prosecute offenses against the laws of the commonwealth, either in the counties or at the capital, nor can the attorney general or his assistants interfere in those prosecutions, but under the constitution and laws they are left wholly to the lawyers elected by the people to conduct their own affairs in the judicial department, and these commonwealth's attorneys in thirty-three districts and county attorneys in one hundred and nineteen counties, two hundred and fifty-two lawyers of the state, are all elected, sworn and paid to prosecute all offenses, including offenses of the trusts, and they are further stimulated to do their duty by a law which gives the commonwealth's attorney 50 per cent, of the fines, and the county attorney 25 per cent., and some other officers parts of them; all for the purpose of securing earnest prosecution of such offenses, and any failure to prosecute the trusts on any just complaint is a failure of the people's officers chosen by themselves under their own laws, and those ergles who claim that if the governor had spun as much money on lawyers to prosecute the trusts as he has on millions, it would have done more to end the disorders, simply show that they know nothing of the law of the state, as the governor cannot spend one dollar to prosecute the trusts, because the people's laws restrict the right to prosecute the trusts to the presenting officers of the judicial department and give the governor no part in it.

Gov. Willson then referred to his former message to the legislature, in which he urged that some action be taken, and he comments on the fact that no bill has been passed for the relief of conditions, saying: "I am advised that no law which would afford any help to the authorities, either judicial or executive, in regard to a change of venue of such investigations and prosecutions was ever offered in either house until February 20, and that it is so late in the session that it will be difficult to get any such law through now if there is, as it seems now, any material opposition; but the condition of anarchy prevailing in nearly a third of the state, paralyzing the enforcement of the laws, makes this measure vital to the liberty of the people, and therefore more important than any and every other duty of the general assembly."

Attorney General's Office.

Continuing, the governor says: I also recommend, in the interest of economy, a reorganization of the office of the attorney general, providing for certain assistants, in order to reduce the expense necessary for special counsel under our present system, and while an act has been introduced for this purpose I am advised that it has not been acted upon by either house.

It is plain that law giving the governor power to employ detectives to investigate and discover those guilty of crimes against the commonwealth, which limits him to two detectives and $2,000 a year, is wholly insufficient for this purpose, and I earnestly ask your honorable body to appropriate not less than $25,000 at the earliest possible date under your rules to enable me to employ sufficient force to find, arrest and secure the punishment of the men guilty of these crimes, and to bring to an end the routinized disorder which affects the commonwealth. The governor does not make this request for himself, but for his people as the officer and servant, of all his people, and to uphold the law.

The Only Remedy.

Every day's experience forces us to recognize that while the functions of the three departments of our government, the legislative, the executive and judicial, are important, the range and power of each is small and that in the final result each depends upon the support and power of the people, and neither has any power except that given and maintained by the people to enforce their own law, and that if the people fail to enforce the law the government must be without power, except to make an earnest, faithful and unselfish appeal to all the people to guard themselves and their rights, their lives, liberties and property.

I wish also to appeal to the general assembly to pass an act authorizing and directing the attorney general and his assistants to take charge of and control all investigations of all offenses against the laws of the commonwealth in any case where the attorney general believes that the local commonwealth's attorney or county attorney or other officials are likely to fall from any cause to prosecute such offenses faithfully.

Will Help the People.
If the general assembly will adopt the legislation recommended, it will strengthen the hands of the people's officers in enforcing the laws and pro-

BRIDE DIES

SIXTEEN HOURS AFTER BRIDE ILL-NESS OF EPHEMIC POISONING.

Mrs. Ethel Mae Thomas, Wife of Mr.
Charles Thomas, of This City.

Mrs. Ethel M. Thomas, 19 years old died yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock at Riverside hospital, after a short illness with uraemic poisoning. She became ill last Monday and on Tuesday was taken to the hospital from her home, 523 Harahan boulevard.
From the first of her illness she has become worse steadily.

Mrs. Thomas was born in Addison, Mo., and was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Smith, 1740 Harrison street, but had resided in Paducah for four years. Several months ago she was married to Mr. Charles Thomas.
Mrs. Thomas leaves one sister, Miss Ollie Smith, and three brothers, Fred, Earl and Boyd Smith.

She was a bright and intelligent young woman, and during her residence in Paducah gained many friends. For some time she was connected with the A. B. Smith Lumber company.

The funeral of Mrs. Thomas was held this afternoon at 3 o'clock. The burial was in Oak Grove cemetery.

Quite Suspicious.

Henry Clews, the banker and author, was talking at the Union club last New York about a certain financier.

"No wonder the man is so successful," said Mr. Clews. "He is the most careful, the most suspicious fellow I ever heard of. In fact, he reminds me of a Staffordshire farmer my father used to tell of.

"It was said of this farmer that, whenever he bought a herd of sheep, he examined each sheep closely to make sure that it had no cotton in it."—Washington Star.

SANFORD CASE EQUALS THAW

Brooklyn Lawyer It Is Alleged Drugged Woman.

Sister Tells Story of Ratu of Jennie Blunt at Hands of Charles M.

WILL DIE FROM HIS INJURIES.

New York, Feb. 27.—Justifying the shooting of Charles M. Sanford, a leading Brooklyn lawyer, by Miss Jennie Blunt, Mrs. H. W. Tuttle, a sister of the pretty girl who may have to answer for Sanford's murder, told a story to parallel which, one must hark back to the amazing recital of Florence Evelyn Thaw.

With a bullet in his brain, Sanford lies in Seney hospital hovering between life and death. His wife is by his bedside, and ministering to him is one of his daughters, who is a nurse in the institution. The operation of deplaning was resorted to as a desperate means of saving his life, but the attending physicians hold out little hope.

Jennie Blunt, a nervous, mental and physical wreck, is locked up in police headquarters.
"I am glad I killed him," she cried, not knowing that Sanford is still living. "I will answer to my God for my act."

It is admitted on all sides that the woman's reason is shattered. Sanford and his friends maintain that her husband alone prompted the shooting.
Her relatives bitterly lamenting that the man's death was not instantaneous assert that his humanity drove her mad.

This afternoon at her home in Brooklyn, Mrs. Tuttle, Jennie Blunt's sister, told the story. When the reporter made known the object of his call, she cried:

"My God, it has happened at last. I have been expecting Jennie to shoot Mr. Sanford for the past three weeks.
He deserves it, if he is not dead, it is a pity. What my sister has suffered at his hands was enough to drive any woman to commit murder."

"Seven years ago Jennie was one of the prettiest and nicest girls in Mount Vernon. She came down to Brooklyn one day to visit me, and on her return to take her train she met Sanford. He cultivated her acquaintance and got her to come down from Mount Vernon and visit him in his office."

"One of the side rooms in his office is fitted up like a studio. There is never any sunlight in it. He has a lamp burning there all the time with a red shade over it; there is a couch in the room, a lot of eastern ornaments, rugs, cushions and pictures.
He has liquor there that he used to give her to drink. Long after their first meeting I was there one day, and he gave her some of the stuff and it affected her immediately. He tried to get another of my sisters to drink it, but she refused, and then Jennie, who was trying to get away from him and had been to the police court three times to have him arrested, took me by the arm and begged me to go to court with her."

"I don't know why I didn't go.
Long before that he had visited her in Mount Vernon, she told me. He drugged her there. He drugged her all the time. For five years she was stupified most of the time with drugs.
That was the way he maintained his influence over her."

RIVER NEWS

Desperate Measure.
A dispatch from Maysville, Ky., is as follows:
"After being defeated in this city in the effort to have an ordinance passed by the city council to put the American Tobacco company out of business in this city, the equity people are now getting up a petition to have the board of magistrates of Mason county call a special session and pass an act prohibiting the use of the county roads for the delivery of tobacco into this city. This will be the last move."

ten years ago. The Optimist—"No, but it gets there a great deal quicker."

During these cold, dreary days the Paducahan is not only dreaming of his vacation in the warm days of summer, when he may romp for weeks, but many are actually preparing for their trips now. Trips on the steamboats running out of the Paducah harbor afford a splendid advantage for a delightful outing, and the captain of one of the large boats running out of Paducah today said that 58 persons had engaged passage on his boat for next June. This does not include one large party, but consists of only one or two persons engaging passage at a time. Regularly all of the boats have been receiving requests for the reservation of rooms for a trip during the summer months, and long before the summer breezes blow the captain may estimate on the number of passengers they will carry out on a trip.

of ties with her. The boat is tied up in the Tennessee river and will be the ways for repairs to her hull just as soon as the high waters go down.

She will leave for the Mississippi river when repaired.

The Kentucky is due tonight from the Tennessee. She will have a good trip when she arrives. The Kentucky will leave for Waterloo, Ala., Satur-

The City of Saffilo came down the probably will have her repairs done in time so as not to miss any trips.

Joe Cunningham, mate on the Dick Pace's landing. Cunningham was lunching a skiff off the Dick to take a passenger to shore, when he lost his balance and took a dive in the river.

He was not long in getting out, but took his passage on to the shore before drying out.

The Royal will be let off the dry

Charles Ginter, 83, and Hunter Ben

Official Forecasts.

The Ohio, from Evansville to Paducah, will fall at an increasing rate for several days, and continue falling for an indefinite period. At Cairo, it will begin to fall slowly tonight.

The Tennessee, from Florence to the mouth, will continue falling for several days.

The Mississippi, at Chester, will rise slightly during the next 36 hours.
At Cape Girardeau, not much change.
For 12 hours, then rise slightly.

The Wabash, at Mt. Carmel, will continue falling for several days.

SCHOOL NOTES

For the best arrangement of post cards, containing views of Paducah, a local book dealer has offered a $5 gold piece to the school child winning.
The announcement was made to the children this afternoon, and the young sters will begin work at once on the arrangement. There are many views of the city on post cards, and it will afford the school children an excellent chance to show their ability. The cost of the cards will be small, and several rooms will buy the cards and appoint several pupils to arrange the cards, the $5 prize to be used to improve the appearance of the room if won.

Basketball.

Fast and furious was the playing of the Blues and Whites in their basketball game yesterday afternoon at the Eagles' gymnasium. The girls played an especially good game as shown by the score 11 to 12 in favor of the Blues, who were more fortunate in hitting the basket. The first half of a second game was played, and when time was called the score stood 9 to 8 in favor of the Blues. The Whites played great ball, but every time victory seemed in their grasp they lost it by a margin. The championship series will begin next Tuesday, and the last practice game will be held Saturday morning.

Teachers Meet.

This afternoon the teachers of the High school faculty will meet with Professor Sugg and arrange the monthly grades in pupils' department and interest in work. The teachers of the grades met at noon and arranged the grades.

Another room of the Washington building has been placed on the beautiful 1st. Virgil Cooper and Oscar Gideon, two high school lads, have painted the walls of Mrs. Leindra's room on the second floor. The sidewalls are painted green, and pink was used on the ceiling. The work was well done, and is an improvement worthy of mention.

Tomorrow morning at opening exercise Mrs. Lela Wade Lewis, and Mrs. W. C. Gray will give a musical program.

"Look here, my lady!" exclaimed

THERE WILL BE NO LETTING UP

In Policy of Warring on Corruption.

Their Time Is Wasted Who Ask Him to Withhold His Hand From Dealing With Them.

HE ADDRESSES SCHOOL HEADS.

Washington, Feb. 27.—That there will be no let up in President Roosevelt's policy of warring "against rottenness and corruption," was emphatically declared by the president in an address to the delegates of the department of superintendents of the National Education association during their reception at the white house.
The president said:

"It is idle for any man to talk of despairing of the future of this country or feeling unduly alarmed about it, if he will come in contact with you here and with the forces that you represent. Fundamentally this country is sound, morally no less than physically. Fundamentally, in its family life and in outside activities of its individuals, the country is better and not worse than it formerly was."

"This does not mean that we are to be excused if we fail to war against rottenness and corruption, if we fail to contend effectively with forces of evil; and they waste their time who ask me to withhold my hand from dealing therewith. But it is worth while to smile the wrong for the very reason that we are confident that right will ultimately prevail."

"You who are training the next generation, are training the country as it is to be a decade or two hence; and while your work in training the intellect is great, it is not as great as your work in training the character. More than anything else I want to see the public schools turn out boys and girls who, when men and women, will add to the sum of good citizenship of the nation."

He urged the visitors to teach the boys to be good citizens and girls good housekeepers, to respect the rights of others and to be prepared and willing to earn their own living."

President, W. H. Eason, of Cleveland, Ohio, secretary, A. C. Nelson, of Salt Lake City, Utah.
